

The east wall of the Tyson Creek valley as seen from the landing at the entrance of the tunnel, just below Tyson Lake. The terrain is very steep and rugged. As is obvious in the photo, this area is subject to high levels of annual rainfall. The above ground portion of the penstock starts at this point.

Next slide