

Looking down along buried penstock to the powerhouse, there is significant potential for erosion. This increases dramatically if any traffic is permitted on the slope. A ditch and a small settling pond were built at the base of this slope, which is immediately adjacent to Tyson Creek.

Penstock down to Tyson Powerhouse

Next slide